The Institution of Civil Engineers (UK), the owner of the NEC system, has published "June 2017" versions of a full range of contracts and handbooks, all branded as "NEC4".

NEC4 has taken the successful NEC3 contract suite and enhanced it, with some new features and some new forms of contract. All of the changes are a direct result of feedback from industry, to support methods and provide solutions which Clients are demanding. The changes are evolutionary rather than revolutionary.

New additions to the suite of contracts include:

- NEC4 Design, Build and Operate Contract
- NEC4 Professional Services Subcontract
- NEC4 Term Services Subcontract
- NEC4 Dispute Resolution Service Contract (which replaces the NEC3 Adjudicator's Contract)
- NEC4 Alliance Contract

Guidance Notes and "How To" handbooks have been replaced with separate books for

- Preparing a xxxxx contract and
- Managing a xxxxx contract

Two new handbooks which cover the whole suite of contracts and essential for all NEC users are:
